Bartlett, Robertson Present Program Of Classic Music

Jeanette A. Winans '48

A large, enthusiastic audience welcomed Ethel Bartlett and Rae Robertson at the first of the 1946-47 Middlebury College Concert-Lecture Series. Well received wherever they play, the duo-pianists present themselves in a simple, dignified, yet charming manner. Their choice of pieces seemed especially well fitted to a college performance.

Bach Selections

The first part of the program was composed of arrangements of four short works by Bach and Handel. The first two were Handel's Arrival of the Queen of Sheba, from the oratorio, Solomon; and Gigue in C Major, by Bach. The third, and perhaps most outstanding was Bach's beautiful and lucid aria, Sheep May Safely Graze. The last was the impressive Fugue in G minor, also by Bach.

Their next group included two longer works, Andante and Variations by Schumann, and Rondo by Chopin. Both of these required and received sympathetic interpretation as well as technical skill and clarity.

Popular Arrangements

Following a short intermission, Miss Bartlett and Mr. Robertson played the well liked Scaramouche Suite in three parts, by Darius Milhaud. Each part presents a contrasting mood: the first, playful; the second, quiet; and the third, lively; featuring a South American Samba rhythm.

The final group on the program consisted of a showy and likable transcription by Chasins of Strauss' Blue Danube, as adopted by Schulz-Evler; an arrangement by Mr. Robertson of Grieg's lovely and lyrical Nocturne; Jamaican Rumba, a short and, as the name implies, rhythmic piece by Arthur Benjamin; and finally the ever popular and brilliant Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2, of Franz Liszt.

College Favorites

As encores, the always gracious pianists obliged with duo-piano arrangements of four college favorites: Liebestraum by Liszt; Waltz by Arensky; Clair de Lune, Debussy; and finally Bach's beautiful Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring.

Women's Forum Sponsors Album

The Middlebury Album of College Songs, sponsored by Women's Forum for the benefit of the overseas relief branch of the American Friends' Service Committee, will be available on or about February 1, 1947.

The selections, which are rendered by a chosen group of the college choristers, include: "Benediction," "Panthers of Middlebury," "High on the Hill," "Where the Otter Winds the Willow," and "Gamaliel Painter's Cane."

Jeanette A. Winans '48, chairman of the Record Committee, has announced that there will be a sales campaign during the week of November 11, when orders for the album will be solicited. Co-chairmen in charge of publicity are: William Gustafsen and Elizabeth A. Holmgren '47. Other committee members have not yet been selected.

The album, which contains three double-side ten-inch records, will cost $5.60. They are composed of vinylite, a plastic used in Victor records, and were recorded by Kasper-Gordon Inc., Boston, a firm that has served other institutions including Wellesley, Wheaton, and Harvard University.

Semester Social Calender Approved by Student Life

Alums Greeted By Decorations Of Fraternities

Two hundred thirty-four alumni, representing forty-four classes, came back to Midd last Saturday for the first Homecoming weekend since 1942.

The oldest alumni registered was Lucretius Ross, from Bennington, and a member of the class of 1890. Dr. John Thomas also represented the class of 1890. Most of the alumni came from the New England states, New York, and New Jersey. Several were from Canada, and Dr. and Mrs. A. M. Roscoe came from Newman, California.

Chi Psi Wins Decorations

As is traditional, the fraternity houses on the men's campus were decorated and a cup presented for the most original decoration. Prof. Samuel Guarnaccia made the presentation at the dance held in the gymnasium on Saturday evening. The judges were selected by Frederick F. Van de Water, term 6, representing the student body. Prof. Arthur Healy, Prof. Reginald L. Cook, and Dean Millicent C. Woodward served as judges for the decorations competition. Decorations were judged on the merits of originality, appropriateness, and execution. Chi Psi was the winner while Delta Kappa Epsilon and Sigma Alpha received honorable mention in what the judges termed close competition. The judges also expressed the sentiment that the spirit and effort put into all of the decorations was commendable.

The winning decorations at the Chi Psi house brought a carnival scene to Middlebury. A bear, in a Middlebury sweat-shirt, was selling tickets at a bell ringing concession. Standing with mallet in hand, a dummy in cap and gown, representing an alumni, was about to make an attempt to ring the bell. The scale of the bell ringing apparatus was graduated in dollars to 700,000 which was

"The Old Midd Spirit" Is Exuberant Keynote Of Three Day Alum's Homecoming Weekend

Gerald W. Elbers '49

Friday began the melee of events of the Homecoming weekend which put Middlebury's men and women in a school spirit that hasn't been matched in many a season. A snake dance which began at Mead Chapel wound its way down to Porter Field with approximately 800-900 of the student body trailing after it and accompanied by the school band which was more or less drowned out by the exuberance of our much sought after and eager freshman women.

Memorial Fund Plea

Pres. Stratton, Prof. Freeman, "Duke" Nelson and Mr. Moses G. Hubbard '13, all gave pep talks acknowledging their admiration for the great show of school spirit and asking for 100% cooperation in backing the drive for $700,000 memorial fund which began officially this weekend. After becoming thoroughly familiar with Mr. Hubbard's little, "spittin'" grandson the evening's program turned to the traditional bonfire.

Bonfire Stomp

One of the more entertaining events of the evening was the manner in which our Midd girls plodded and puffed around the bonfire in a snake dance. Nevertheless, the Midd men appreciate the true spirit shown and understand fully that it takes two years of Flit classes to really learn how to run gracefully. Maybe next week they'll do it in a Russian fashion instead of their version of the South African Pogo Stomp.

"When Things Looked Good"

Post-rally Thoughts

Late (9:30) Friday evening, after our pep rally, this writer found himself sitting in the Hepburn arbor listening to the croaking of the birds and the mumbled whispers of what we ostensibly took for ground hogs. However, this illusion was quickly spent when a high pitched voice, which was definitely not a ground hog, sighed, "Isn't it a beautiful evening, darling?" and the answer of "I wish we had had time for a hamburger," led to a revived and involved discussion from our old psychology class of the subject of the two strongest motives. I like hamburgers, too, but not that much. And the fool was from Middlebury.

Old Midd Spirit

The Midd women and men redeemed themselves in my eyes, after those two somewhat disillusioning experiences, when they backed up their team, for which we all had every reason to be proud, with cheers when things looked good and even more cheers when it looked pretty black. To come out on top would have given the Panthers an incomparable morale booster but we in the stands still felt that we weren't let down by them for one minute.

Gala Saturday Shindigs

A downpour which lasted from the last quarter of the game right on through past midnight didn't put a damper on the

Drive For Funds

The campus drive for funds to build the Memorial Field House is officially under way. The committee in charge of this drive is more interested in the number of students who give rather than the size of the contribution. In other words, we hope for one hundred per cent participation by the student body in this effort. The success of the drive off campus depends largely upon the success of the drive on campus, and the yardstick with which we will measure this success will be the percentage of donors from the undergraduate body as a whole.

The procedure for collecting contributions has been carefully worked out in order to make the solicitation as simple as possible. Representatives from sororities, fraternities, and dormitories have been chosen on both the Women's and Men's Campus, and they will contact the group assigned to them. They will report to the central committee from time to time so that the progress of the campaign can be published in this paper.

The representatives will have pledge cards which can be filled out by the students according to the plan they wish to follow in making their gift. These are the three plans: 1. Cash or check, 2. Semester installments over a period of one year, and 3. Semester installments over a period of two years. We urge you to give a check rather than cash since the entire donation is deductible from income taxes, and the check can be your receipt as well. Please do not make a pledge to give an amount without first giving the matter good consideration.

How much should you give? This is entirely up to the individual. Give what you feel you can afford. The committee in charge of the campus campaign hoped each student would contribute ten dollars. This did not seem to be an unreasonably high amount. If you have attended Middlebury for four years or plan to attend for four years, you ten dollar gift would represent a contribution of less than eight cents a week for every week of your attendance here. We must admit that the sacrifice is small compared to the objective in view.

Free Speech

The editors are not responsible for opinions expressed in this column unless they are clearly prefaced by "Editors' Note."

To the Students:

"Bull sessions" and "Hen parties" usually end in deadlocks over a pot of home brewed coffee in the wee hours of the morning, with little or nothing accomplished. The one sure method of giving voice to a tortured and frustrated conscience is to air your Midd criticisms, pro or con, in this column. Break loose and jot down your latest gripe or compliment, drop it in the Free Speech collection box at the book store and be assured that you will be heard.

Sign your name, letter anonymous if you desire. This is your personal campus. Let's all use it!

It seems the dance was quite a success Saturday night, but the boys shouldn't take advantage of the lack of recreational facilities by plastering on $1.20 per couple at a dance where they, as individuals, are profiting. True, they have to practice quite a bit during the week and it sure does take them away from their studies and social life. I know a few of the football men who were not up to having dates on Saturday night and the very few who were certainly could not enjoy themselves completely. They are the same boys who are out there on week days giving time so that students can have something else to do in their spare time on Saturday afternoons. Believe me, none of the boys on the team are drawing $20 or $30 a Saturday afternoon. They are out there with plenty of Midd spirit to put the school ahead. Dances for organizations of the school well deserve any price they ask and we should all back them up, but private enterprise . . . no. See you Saturday afternoon and it still only costs the regular athletic yearly charge which, when averaged, comes to a lot less than $1.20 for each performance.

(Signed)

A FOOTBALL PLAYER.

Editor's Note—

To explain the apparent "profiteering" of individual members of the Black Panthers that evoked criticism last Saturday, we would like to state that the players each receive $5, their usual fee, for playing at the dance. The Black Panthers sponsored the dance for the same reason that many other organizations do—to raise money to carry on their activities. The band needed funds to meet expenses incurred by the purchase of new instruments, new music stands, and other items that go into the making of their music as we like it. The proceeds of the dance were, or will be, used for this purpose.

To the Editor:

Being newly arrived at Middlebury, naturally I haven't had the time to join or gain membership in all the various activities on campus. However, I have been here long enough to notice one thing that I believe is important to all the new men.

Last week after the football game, the fraternities held ten dances which was fine, and I hold no gripe about that, in fact, someday I hope to be a member of one of the frats and go to them myself. But my squawk comes in that there was no provision made for the informal dance at eight. Yet when I asked an upperclassman about the neutral men being able to hold an afternoon dance I learned that this privilege is restricted to the fraternities. With all the various social rooms available in the different dormitories I don't see why the college authorities should discriminate in this matter as there is little to do around town but dig out a bottle and stave off the anti-climax that way.

RICHARD H. STOKES '50

EDITOR'S NOTE: Underclassmen and neutrals are seriously misinformed if they have been told that the social rooms of the college are not available to them. Anyone can request the use of any rec room and have it reserved for them provided this request goes through the proper channels and chaperones are procured as they are for fraternity house dances and gym dances.

Libe Exhibit Honors Fiftieth Anniversary Of "Times" Revue

"Fifty Years of Best Sellers," an exhibition commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the New York Times book revue section, is now on display in the main reading room of the library. This exhibit brings out many interesting facts about the book revue section which, when started 50 years ago, was considered daring and risky, but today boasts a larger circulation than any other section of the Times. In connection with the book revue section, book sales records were compiled from 1896 on to determine the nation's best sellers. From 1896 to 1917 sales polls of fiction and non-fiction were taken collectively and fiction always rose to the top. During World War I non-fiction received great recognition, and from then on records were kept separately and a top fiction best seller and a top non-fiction best seller were named each year. The library exhibit shows books representative of the whole 50-year period. For example, the 1942 top sellers in fiction and non-fiction, "The Song of Bernadette" and "See Here, Private Hargrove," are both on display.

"Fifty Years of Best Sellers" is the second in a series of exhibitions planned for the library. The first, a showing of books by and about people of Vermont, contained such favorites as "Let Me Show You Vermont," "Vermont in Winter," and Dean W. Storrs Lee's book, "Father Went to College." In the future exhibitions are being planned to tie in with nationally observed book holidays, such as Jewish book week, National book week and National education week.

The ultimate goal of these book exhibitions, which may soon be reached, is the establishment of a series of book exhibits arranged with various departments on campus; such as a display arranged by the library in consultation with the chemistry department showing literature and pictures on chemistry and its related fields. If this series is established, it would include exhibitions arranged with all the departments on campus at some time during the college year.

Outing Sponsored By Mortar Board

Freshman and transfer women attended a supper outing sponsored by Mortar Board in the open air at Breadloaf Tuesday, Oct. 15. Dean Millicent Woodward, Mrs. Reginald L. Cook, and Mrs. W. Storrs Lee are the advisors of the Banshee Chapter and participated in the outing. Trucks carrying the students left from Forest Hall at 4.30 and arrived back in Middlebury at 7.00.

Mortar Board members entertained their guests with a symbolic pageant showing the effect which four years at Middlebury has on a student.

Members of Mortar Board are: Joanne E. Buckeridge, E. Sue Carr, Edith M. Gordon, Laura-Lee Hopkins, Janet Kraft, Margaret MacCormack, all of term 7, and Ester L. Walsh of term 8.

Officers of the organization are: President, Miss Walsh; vice-president, Miss Carr; secretary, Miss MacCormack; treasurer, Miss Hopkins; editor, Miss Kraft. Miss Buckeridge will serve as president the second term of this year.

Sunday Chapel Speaker To Sing Solo October 20

Dr. Alden H. Mills, minister of the First Christ Church, West Hartford, Conn., will speak in chapel on October 20.

Doctor Mills plans to sing a solo on Sunday in place of the anthem. He spent this past summer studying at Union Theological Seminary.

Students may remember Doctor Mills from his first appearance as guest speaker on November 11, 1945. At this service Doctor Mills sang "The Lord's Prayer."

In the summer of 1945, Doctor Mills achieved national recognition through his NBC broadcasts of sermons and hymns.

Interfraternity Holds Meeting In Gifford Hall

The Interfraternity Council met in Gifford Hall at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 9, to discuss absences from exchange dinner and to formulate plans for the fraternal homecoming-decorations competition.

The dinner exchange program, through which neutrals visit the eight fraternities on campus, is now in its second week. Its discussion of the dinner-date absences the council decided that at the end of each week each house will submit to the council a list of these unexcused absences. The council will then notify the men of their responsibility to attend in order to remain eligible for pledging.

In an interview, later, Roy Kinsey emphasized that " . . . absences should be made up at the first opportunity." The council at its meeting decided that a second unexcused absence will disqualify a man from pledging.

The council appointed Frederick Vande Water chairman of the House Decorations Judging Committee and directed him to secure judges for the competition and with them, to set the time for the final judging. The members of the council placed no limit on the extensiveness of decorations nor did it lay down a central theme to be followed in the displays.

NOTICES

The local churches are proud of the traditions but there is one which they would gladly forego; namely, increasing numbers in the choir on Sunday morning. Anyone interested in adding his vocal abilities to any of the choirs would find a hearty welcome.

The Baptist Church rehearses at Chipman Park Wednesday afternoon, 4 o'clock. The rehearsals at the Methodist Church will be either Wednesday evenings at 7 or Sunday morning at 9, depending on the wishes of the choir members. Those interested in the Congregational Church choir should contact Professor Andrews. Meetings of the Episcopal choir are held at Reverend Jones' residence on South St. at 8 o'clock on Wednesday evenings.

Your help is needed. If you can spare the time and enjoy singing, please join the effort to provide music for the worship services in the churches.

Students who live off campus may pick up their copies of the CAMPUS on a newspaper table in Munroe each Friday morning. Veterans who are back at college under the G. I. Bill of Rights are reminded that their subscription to CAMPUS is included in their term bill.

SPORTS

BILLBOARD

Now is the time that the football team really needs your support. Last weekend the Panther was taken and mauled, but that certainly is no criterion for leaving the squad flat.

Remember, we've still got five of our seven games to play and without backing, and I mean real student support, we might just as . . . oh well, that will never happen here.

Once again hats off to Charlie Puksta and the fine job that the backers-up did. Seemed as though they got about half the tackles. Zaum and Mac alternated many a time.

Trinity's line lived up to what was expected. They were not only big, but they could move when the occasion presented itself.

Did you hear the final result of the Vermont-Union score?

Last weekend saw the return of many grads, some older and others younger than some of us today. Even though the weather and the final score were against us, it certainly didn't seem to dampen the spirits of those concerned.

From last reports, "Cece" Steen was still counting the money.

Funny thing, the highways north and south of Middlebury were loaded Saturday morning, and it was a legal holiday, too.

This coming Saturday the Blue and White plays host to Wesleyan University, who the pickers have named (pre-season, of course) as the team to beat in the Little Three.

A bit of appreciation to: Eddy Cooke, for his expert play-by-play description of the game over the P. A. system; the scoreboard boys, even though they didn't agree with the officials all the time; the Midd band; the cheerleaders; the Greeks and ALL they did to make the event a success; and to Duke and the members of his (and OUR) team.

After that seige Friday night, it sure seemed nice to stand up once again. Whew!!

Items of interest: R. P. I.'s victory at the expense of Williams; Norwich meeting defeat for the third straight time this year—(that's on three tries, by the way)—Springfield showed the Keckmen the light last football afternoon; the number of colds circulating around campus—the weather, isn't it? Coach Brown's harriers getting in top shape for their initial cross-country hop against Amherst this Saturday morning at 10 a.m.

Upsets: Columbia and Yale, with the Littlemen coming from behind to win 28 to 20; Herman "Jim Thorpe" Wedemeyer and the rest of the St. Mary's aggregation suffering their first defeat at the hands of the California Bears.

Though not an upset, but certainly to be regarded as one of the outstanding games of the year, was the Army victory over the Michigan Wolverines.

Outstanding games this week: Army-Columbia, Michigan-Northwestern, Alabama-Tennessee, and Wisconsin-Illinois.

Pickers look out, we're after you this week.

Midd Vanquished By Trinity Eleven

Action—Trinity Midd Game

John Rumbold '49

Porter field stands were packed and overflowing Saturday as Middlebury took the field against the powerful-looking Trinity eleven from Hartford, Conn. It was an enthusiastic crowd eager for victory, especially since it was Homecoming weekend. Though the team spirit was high, the necessary experience was lacking as the Panthers went down to defeat 28-7.

Trinity Scores

The game started with Trinity kicking off from the north end of the field. After a few exchanges of the ball, Trinity's Dolan intercepted Corbisiero's pass on the fifty-yard line and Trinity, effectively working from their T formation, started the march to their first touchdown. A big help in the drive was the twenty yards given to them by the Middlebury penalties for unnecessary roughness and being off side. The first touchdown was scored as Eblen took Kunkiewicz's pass in the end zone. Vibert came in and kicked the extra point with the mechanical-like accuracy he showed throughout the game. Though Middlebury received again, it wasn't long before Trinity was back down in their territory. The quarter ended with the ball on Midd's eight-yard line and Trinity obviously on their way for seven more points.

In the second quarter, Trinity soon went over again even though they almost lost the ball. They got down to the one

William's Freshman Beat Midd J. V., Score 19-0

With but little more than one week's practice as a team, Middlebury's JV went down before a more experienced Williams eleven on Weston Field last Friday, 19-0.

One and Two

Midd's kick-off was good for only ten yards, and Williams recovered on the fifty. Using a shift from the "T" to a double wingback, the Purple ran the ball to the Blue and White eight in the first few plays. Then Midd's second string linemen were put into the game, and held for three plays but the fourth let an Ephman through for a touchdown. The conversion failed.

With the first team back on the grid, the Panther was forced onto his 25. He kicked, Williams caught on their 40 and ran it back for another invasion of the visitors' end zone and conversion. This all happened in the first four minutes of the game, and "from here on Midd played a good ball game," to quote Coach Chalmers.

During the second quarter the Panther drove to the enemy 35, but threw away a possible score on an incomplete pass. Then, just before the half, Williams' second string managed to run the ball back to Midd's ten, but the end of the period forestalled the hosts.

Third On A Fumble

After the half Williams plunged to near Midd's ten, but lost a chance to score on a bad center. A Midd recovery began the surge to Williams' 35. But the fumble-jumbo changed colors, and it was Midd's turn to lose the ball—this time near mid-field. The Ephmen took charge of the ball and carried it into the end zone, for the third and final time.

The Panther's big TD chance came near the end of the final quarter when

Hard-hitting Competitor To Face Panther Squad

Middlebury's twice-tripped football team meets as nasty a bird as ever took wing when it tries to ground the high-flying Wesleyan Cardinals on Porter Field this Saturday.

Two-time Winners

Two-time winners in impressive showings against Swarthmore and Connecticut, the cocky, hard-hitting Red Birds loom as one of the "Panther's" toughest assignments for the 1946 grid season.

Big, fast and loaded with reserves, Wesleyan began its widely-heralded campaign on October 5 by travelling to Swarthmore, Pennsylvania and promptly booting their dazed hosts all over the Quaker City suburbs to depart with a 26-0 victory. Last week at Middletown, Conn., their home grounds, they hammered out a 7-2 triumph over a surprised Connecticut U. power-house that one week before had held Harvard to a one touchdown margin.

"Little Three"

The Blue and White's record, current and past, indicates that against the Scarlet, it has at least a one touchdown underdog. In dropping games to both Williams and Trinity, Midd has shown little

4.2 M. Trial Race Run By Tryouts

On last Thursday afternoon Jim Newman '50 won the 4.2-mile cross-country meet in which potential members of this year's harrier squad competed. Bob Mason '48 was second to break the tape, and another frosh, Rufus Cushman, held down third place.

From the first ten men who finished Coach Brown will choose seven to meet Amherst this weekend. These are the top ten: Jim Newman, Bob Mason, Rufus Cushman, Norm Bates, Art Goodrich, Hal Parker, Hal Richardson, Paul Vyrros, Pete McKee, and Norm Jocelin. Coach Brown declined to mention any clockings on these trials.

This year's cross-country team, the first Midd has had since 1942, will confront Amherst on home ground this Saturday at 10:00.

Student Union Reports Constitutional Changes

Sophomores were granted unlimited nights out at the Student Union meeting held last Wednesday, October 9 at 7:30 p.m. in Mead Chapel, when the phrase restricting them to four nights out a week was deleted from Social Legislation.

It was also decided that the House Presidents are to serve for two terms rather than one term as in the past. Women's Assembly passed these amendments last summer and they were approved by the Advisory Council. They became effective upon approval by the Student Union.

yard line when they were penalized five yards for offside. Then a fumble made it look bad. But Midd soon gave them a helping hand as they seemed to do all afternoon. Two offside penalties against the Panthers brought the ball down to Midd's one yard line again, and on the second try Eblen went over for his second score and Vibert came in to make it 14-0.

Midd Retaliates

After McNamara returned the kick to the forty-one yard line of Midd's, the Panthers using a single wing back formation started to show some drive as Masters and Barquin carried the ball to two first downs. Trinity at this point sent their first team back in and stalled the Middlebury attack, soon taking the ball over on their own twenty-five yard line on downs. Being unable to get anywhere, Trinity had to kick from their own thirty-two yard line. Corbisiero received it on his twenty-five yard stripe and advanced to the thirty-two. After a roughness penalty against the Blue and White, an advance by Mulcahy to about the forty yard line of Midd's set up Corbisiero's pass to Meeker who was out in the clear on Trinity's thirty-five yard marker. Meeker ran the rest of the way for a touchdown, just managing to outdistance Eblen, Trinity's speedy back. When McNamara's kick for the extra point was blocked, Corbisiero recovered and ran around left end for the extra point making the score 14-7.

Corbisiero kicked off to Weisenfluh on Trinity's twenty-five yard line. After an exchange of kicks, Kent intercepted Corbisiero's pass from Trinity's forty and ran it back to Midd's forty-one yard line. The half ended with Eblen going off left tackle to the thirty-six but the play was called back because Middlebury was off side. The score at the end of the half was 14-7.

Trinity Accumulates Points

The second half was all Trinity. Eblen, Weisenfluh, and Steele kept ripping through the line and around the ends to pick up yardage. Kunkiewicz's passes connected though heavy rain throughout most of the second half limited any great passing attack. The game ended with Trinity adding two touchdowns and the extra points to make the final score 28-7.

Midd Playing Faulty

After cheering loud and long through the first three quarters the fans started to move out of the stands during the fourth quarter. Their team had failed to show up as well as the Williams results led them to believe they would. Penalties that many times could have been avoided if the players had given some thought to their actions and poor tackling were in many ways the reasons for their loss. A clean tackle from the Middlebury defense was a rarity. There is a great deal of work ahead if the team expects to make

Modern Dancers Initiate Meetings; Mrs. Lee Directs

The Modern Dance Club has gotten off to a good start this year with a fairly large turnout at its first two meetings held at McCullough Gym on the first and eighth of this month.

The Dance Club, under the direction of Mrs. Mary Louise Lee, the wife of Dean Lee, started operations by enlisting as members all those girls who attended the meeting. The first meeting was devoted to elementary calisthenics and dance movements that will tone the body to a muscular control and suppleness of movement that are necessary to perfect more advanced dance forms. Mrs. Dorothy Madden, wife of Professor Madden and Middlebury alumna, provides the percussion accompaniment for the dancers.

At the meeting of October 8 Barbara T. Myers '49, president of the club, led a discussion concerning the Christmas Production, for which plans are being laid. The Dance Club will meet every Tuesday night from 7 to 9 o'clock and its objective, for the enjoyment of both its members and its audience, is the performance of at least two productions this year.

they were about two feet from the Purple end zone. However, an off-side penalty and a final fumble gave the defenders the ball. After several unsuccessful plays a kick was in order, and the game ended with Middlebury trying to pass their way to Williams' crossbars. Final score: 19-0.

In the End-zone

Coach Chalmers—"our line was good offensively, but poor defensively. . . Williams' first team was better than ours, but our second string could go through theirs." Midd had two rooters at the field, Barnes and Burn. . . a post-game swim in Williams' pool for the vanquished.

fun-making and hilarious crowds. Tea dances and buffet suppers at the various fraternity houses began the long-awaited Saturday night. The fact that the informal dance, featuring the Black Panthers, was held in the college instead of the high school gym baffled everyone at first when they considered the unbearably crowded floor and the generally stifling atmosphere. However, after a few moments reflection, the light came. Old Midd needs a new field house to replace the beat-up, broken-down old pile of stone that at present constitutes our gymnasium, and what better way to advertise the fact—especially when all our very rich and not-so-rich alumni were visiting the old Alma Mater.

Student Salesmen

Sunday morning brought with it a beautiful sunshine and a crisp Vermont air which didn't, however, seem to do much about perking up the baggy-eyed specimens of Midd masculinity as they "crowded" down to breakfast. The annoying thing was the pep and exuberance of the alumni. After years of practice maybe they're used to these Homecoming weekends. Anyway, I appreciated and, needless to say, enjoyed the reminiscing that went on at the alumni table.—"Remember old Maggie Jones, the one whose teeth were parallel to her nose? The one who used to break your arm when you refused her a date?"—"Oh yeah," came the answer, "I remember her. Didn't you hear? She's slinging hash down in Rutland, now. Boy, some of us have really gotten ahead in this world." All of a sudden I remembered my duty as a Middlebury man. I was a salesman. We were all salesmen. Our goal must be reached. I tried it on one of the distinguished looking alumni—it was my last attempt. He grabbed me by the front of my coat and pushed his vivid-red face up to mine.—"Tired of livin', bud?" Suddenly I realized that I wasn't the aggressive type salesman. I managed to squeak out a "I was only kiddin'."—He hung me up on the chandelier and stalked off.

Future Games

This ended a somewhat exhausting weekend which will be long remembered by some and unending attempts to remember by others. The best of it was that next week we have it all to go through again but without the alumni to show us youngsters up in physical endurance tests on the dance floors.

at the top. The title was, "Ring the bell and win a field house." A sign in varicolored letters across the front of the house welcomed the alumni. Robert Mason was in charge of the project which was an idea derived by the combined efforts of the house.

"Support the Gym Fund"

Delta Kappa Epsilon presented the theme, "Everything's up to date in Middlebury." An old vintage auto and ancient buggy were contrasted to McCullough gymnasium while Burma Shave signs stating, "Support the gym fund," explained its meaning. James Sullivan was in charge of the undertaking, aided by Charles Morris, Dick Johnson, Gene Hubbard and Joe Sackett.

The decorations at the Sigma Alpha House depicted the return of the college veteran. Their display consisted of a veteran approaching the chapel under the caption, "Back to the college on the hill." Bob Kellogg created the veteran by stuffing paper into some old clothes. Robert Outman, in charge of Sigma Alpha's decorations, stated that they were a house project and that everyone helped out in making them.

Number One Story

The Delta Upsilon's decorations were what Joe Fuchs termed, "A takeoff on the CAMPUS." Copying the newspaper's masthead and print the sign welcomed back the alumni and featured its number one story on the proposed gymnasium. Joe Fuchs was in charge of decorations and Stew Petrie was responsible for the artistry.

Alpha Sigma Phi presented a service record of its members. Fifteen zones were represented by signs fixed to the front of the house. They were arranged so that all of them led back to a replica of the chapel at Midd. George Booth was in charge and Don Gilmore created the chapel.

Four Students Sail At Boston Regatta

Four Middlebury students sailed the Freshman Intercollegiate Regatta, the Charles River Basin, Boston, Oct. 12 and 13.

Bob Bennitt, skipper for Deborah N. and Joan Kent, skipper for John Hendon, raced 14-foot M. I. T. Maroon dinghies, and placed last on the final test score. After the Saturday afternoon race, ten boats out of the 18 competitors were chosen to race in the finals Sunday morning. Yale won the team championship, R. I. State came in second, Brown third, M. I. T. fourth, and Middlebury tenth.

In the stiff Northeastern wind, several dinghies capsized, and when Bob Bennitt's boat shipped about nine inches of water, he and Debby Nye substituted their shoes for bilge pumps, and bailed their boat. Next they jibed and picked up a hat which blew off the head of one of their competitors, used it also for bailing purposes. This group of freshmen was labelled the best turn-out at M. I. since 1941.

With Bill Johnson '49 as skipper for Barb Moss '48, and Al Perry '49 as skipper for Joan Kenyon '49, Middlebury tied Boston College for second place in the M. I. T. regatta held Sunday, Oct. 13.

R. I. State won first place, Amherst fourth, and Bowdoin fifth, but in individual point scoring, Johnson and Moss rated highest of the five teams competing. The wind was light and puffy, and because the boats moved so slowly, one of the afternoon races had to be cancelled.

Much improvement has been shown since fall, 1945, and next spring Middlebury students will have a chance to practice sailing the boat at Ecole Champale.

Midd Swoons As Buonerba Croons

Chuck Pope '48

"EEEEEEEE he's good!" That was the screamed comment of several members of the flightier college when the rich baritone of Dick Buonerba filled McCullough Gym last Saturday night. Many of us realized at that moment that our Panthers were at last complete. What could be more soul satisfying? What could be more pleasing? Just a few more notes from Mr. Buonerba, that's all that is necessary.

From Music to Groceries

Of professional experience he has none, except when he worked as a deaf piano tuner's assistant. In this job he listened to the tuning fork and then sang the note at the top of his lungs into the boss's ear, and then the piano's corresponding note so that the boss could properly adjust the instrument. "The hardest part of the job," says Dick, "was to sing in both the piano's key and that of the tuning fork at the same time." His only other job was with a grocery store where, in his youth, he was an obstetrician. However he only lasted three years on this job because he quit when he heard that other delivery boys were getting paid. There was a three-year interval when he became an agent of the United States Government, and it was his job to help settle several political disputes which were concluded last year. These duties completed, he returned to Midd where he auditioned with the Panthers and has become a permanent part of the band.

Radio Tokyo

Overseas he joined Special Services after the war was over and sang over Radio Tokyo. He also made some records overseas, a few of which he brought back to this country with him.

He has a liking for light opera and musical comedies, but his first desire is for an education. After gleaning this information from him, your reporter left him practicing his microphone stance with the handle of a broom. We feel sure that the improvement will be noticed at his next appearance.

if any of the seasoned experience necessary to upset this potential champ of the "Little Three." The four Midd-Wesleyan meetings have resulted in three Wesleyan wins, 17-0 in 1907, 32-7 in 1908, and 7-0 in 1926, and one tie. The resumption of the series in 1945 brought the "Panthers" closest to a win when a V-12 staffed squad achieved a scoreless tie at Middle-town.

"Duke" Nelson, however, is conceding nothing but the record to the Cardinals.

Hot Team

"They have got one of their hottest teams in years," he stated yesterday, "and we have looked green. We're having trouble getting what you might call a 'freshman' team under way, working smoothly, but all of our faults are traceable to inexperience. There's been no loafing, no undercurrent. It's a swell team to work with and they've got a chance to win any of their games. Personally, I'm a great believer in football 'miracles.' They are almost commonplace in this game. Take the year, for instance, when I was at R.P.I.—we were riding high going into a late game with Worcester Tech, they hadn't scored a point all year—What happens? We blow a lead, boot things around and come out with a licking. Once-in-a-lifetime shots, 'miracles,' they keep on happening—"

With names like Puksta and Meeker on Midd's injured list some sort of "miracle" may well be necessary for the "Panthers" to halt the unchecked march to Wesleyan.

by Armand Annunziata at Sigma Phi Epsilon. With the chapel in the background, they represented the raw and finished products of Middlebury. The job was a house project.

Theta Chi displayed two large banners which stated, "Welcome Alumni." They covered the most of the upper half of the whole front of the house. Art Buetner was in charge and gives a lot of credit to Ollie Remmler for help in making the decorations.

At Kappa Delta Rho Art Kelley headed a committee comprised of Charles Gies, Bob Dossin and himself. Three cartoon characters, representing a red-faced alumnus being greeted by a coed beauty, and his indignant wife standing by, adorned the front of the house. The caption read, "Welcome Home."

Difficulty was expressed, by the various fraternities, in acquiring materials for decorations and many houses were reluctant to state their source of supply.

Alumnae Coffee

On Saturday morning Phi Mu sorority gave an alumnae coffee and Sigma Kappa held open house. After the football game, the fraternity houses held tea dances and to alleviate the congestion at the gym dance four fraternities sponsored dances in the evening.

Alumni Note

Alyce M. Gurseler '46 was married to Lewis G. Ensinger '44 at Manhasset, L. I., on September 22. Mr. Ensinger was president of Blue Key and Men's Assembly.

Strollers, You Pay For Right of Way

Max

Lawlessness was abroad in the Green Mountains Sunday when three potential subjects for a Gang Busters' recontreur were making themselves obnoxious to walkers-about-Campus to the tune of two cents per person. Basis of this daylight highway robbery was given as being "for the right to walk on Campus," to quote the youthful leader of the banditti. The effects of the accosters included one bamboo pole suspending a flag of indistinguishable red characters, three ersatz "gats," and one puerile fistful of pennies and scattered silver, the latter being the afternoon's "take."

Two cents were demanded of those not desiring to vault over the bamboo barricade, and change was graciously made for any amount not in excess of one dollar.

a good showing during the rest of the season. But most of all, the student body must stand behind the team and give them the moral support and encouragement to go out and do their best.

It is a hard schedule ahead and it is going to take a hard fighting team to win. With the proper cooperation, Middlebury can be that hard fighting team. Win or lose let us always see and hear the students out there to the last play encouraging a fighting team.

"This old house sure has changed since 1910. You know I married a Middlebury girl and now our daughter is here. It's a good feeling to be back."

We all heard the alums tell us about their own days and it seemed good to have them around. The homecoming was a success despite the weather. Vermont weather is usually fairly predictable for US natives, and as yet I can't understand last Saturday's change. As I see it the weather for the Wesleyan game will be mildly brisk with an occasional flutter of maple leaves.

Trophy Race

The Alpha Sigs, Sig Alphas, and Sig Eps are the only unbeaten teams remaining in the football league, and from all appearances the Alpha Sigs look like the team to beat. Last week the Theta Chis and Dekes fell before the ASPs who aimed the majority of their passes to Bob Brown. The Sig Eps spearheaded by "Whiz" McGary also kept their slate clean as they polished off the KDRs for their second wind. We hope Rollie Boucher will soon return from the hospital. Big Ed Fleming led the Chipseys to their first victory over the DUs. The Sig Alphas won from the neutrals by a close score, and everybody will be waiting for the result of their game with the Sig Eps.

The Black Panthers with a new theme song, a new baritone sax, and a new vocalist, Dick Bunoerba, make us aware that we have one of the finest college bands in the east. Now we all eagerly await a chance to DANCE to their music. Taking two steps and losing a show or aggravating an old shin injury is no fun. The class of '47 was limited to sell only 20 other tickets when they had a dance at the Gym their sophomore year. The reason was "Fire Hazard" and as we've pointed out in some detail, "the old place hasn't changed one iota." The substitute seems obvious the High School Gym and more and larger dances like our Hanover friends. This is no attempt to instigate a movement.

Cups

It was approved by the Interfrat Council to purchase new needed cups for Intramural sports and also to finance the engraving on some of the present trophies. The weather has slowed up the tennis matches and we soon hope to see side boards where the nets now are beside the gym.

Wallop

In earning four back issues of the CAMPUS, we paused 'neath a harvest moon and thought of Long Island's liberalism and how Ben Franklin's Poor Richard said, "So rather go to bed supperless than rise in debt." Sounds like a steward's proverb.

Campus Displays

P. Bunyan's Cane

The Cane of the great Paul Bunyan, class of '60, now graces Middlebury's campus. This relic of the famous alum has been resurrected and is standing in front of Munroe Hall.

Just why it has been placed there has not been determined. Some say that it is to be used as a barometer for the Memorial Fund drive. This seems reasonable, but there is still room for speculation about what its use will be after the end of this drive.

We favor the rumor that it will be shared by all the seniors who are not fortunate enough to have canes of their own. Since there are some thirty of these women, they could easily carry it, chain-gang style. They might also use it as a battering ram to insure a clear path into and out of chapel.

By the way, does anyone happen to know just how high the cane is? We've also heard there is to be a height-judging contest. This might be too easy.
